

The University of Cape Verde is a public institution of higher education located in Praia, Cape Verde.

The university was founded in 2006 through the merger of two colleges that operated in different locations: the Institute of Education (ISE), located in Playa, and the Institute of Marine Sciences and Engineering (ISECMAR) located in Mindelo. In 2007, a third school officially joined to the university: the National Institute for Agricultural Research and Development (INIDA), located in São Jorge dos Órgãos.
